

Disarray on the Farm

Not far from where we are, hidden among the wheat fields there was a small farm.

Nevertheless, it was not the usual farm; this was special because it had a lot of animals and all living and working in harmony.

When the morning sun peeked out the rooster Pasquale was ready on the roof of the barn to wake up, singing out loud, the farmer and all his animal friends, that meant that everyone would eat soon. Dino the farmer slowly woke up and got ready to start working in his magnificent farm. Even animals awoke and prepared to receive the first portion of food indeed just they saw the shadow of Dino they welcomed him with great joy and trepidation, Pasquale came running from his family, Cocca and the chicks were already waiting to eat together.

While the animals ate, the farmer prepared his chariot and went to get the cow Uvetta, which was a little old but she still knew her job well.

Once started for the fields, the farm dozed off just a second then it resumed its usual frenetic busyness all under the watchful eye of Scheggia, the laziest dog in the world.

The sheep with lamb Nino went in their enclosure to graze and eat a lot of good grass; the ducklings ran to the pond along with the old Turbo, the wise turtle who lived on the farm since he was laid the first stone.

The little ones of the farm were playing together under the watchful eyes of mothers, chicks mice and sparrows spent their time committed to play hide and seek or to chase each other.

The evening came, Dino the farmer and Uvetta returned tired from the fields and in no time at everyone went to sleep, tired of the work done the adults, and for the many adventures, the little ones.

The morning came, the sun kissed the farm with his warm rays but no one woke up. After a few hours with the screams of the farmer, the farm with agitation began to move, no one understood what had happened until Dino ran inside the barn screaming like a madman the name of Pasquale, only then Cocca and the chicks realized that their husband and father was no longer inside the chicken coop.

The rooster Pasquale was gone, everyone was in a state of despair and no one knew who had taken him and where he was.

The farmer was very worried but work in the fields could not wait, therefore as prepared each day and the chariot along with Raisins walked to the wheat fields.

However, the farm animals could not turn a blind eye; one of their friends had disappeared and had to find it again!

They called Scheggia, which as a good hound explained to them how they should proceed to find Pasquale and created two different groups: ducklings and birds in flight departed to patrol the area from above; sheep, chickens, mice with Splinter began to check all corners of the farm.

The puppies were excluded from the research because they were considered too small and they were left with Turbo to play, but as soon as the parents and all the other animals on the farm went in search of the rooster, four wide boys organized themselves and, without being seen by the old turtle, they went looking for Pasquale.

The chick Gino captained the team, followed by lamb Nino, the little mouse Hercules and the duckling Noce ran right and left without finding anything until exhausted they sat down under a peach tree. As soon as they rested Noce saw a feather coppered, and Gino exclaimed loudly: "is a feather of my uncle Pasquale !!" they began searching again the cock and They saw that along the trail Pasquale had left a wake of feathers to help those who had gone to look for him.

The four brave animals arrived up to the lair of the bad kittens, at first glance, they might seem cute and cuddly, but they were not so good because, ever since they arrived on the farm close to that of Dino their only purpose was to be able to eat the poor Pasquale.

Once you find the rooster, Noce took flight and went to call the other animals that reached the four little explorers. Once they saw that the cock was still in health, they made the decision to call the farmer because they could not fight against those cats hungry.

Therefore, it was that all the ducks and birds flew toward Uvetta and Dino, to try to attract their attention. The farmer obviously did not understand the reason for so much noise, but Uvetta received the message began to run and Dino had no choice but to follow her. Once he arrived to the den of cats, he understood what had caused all the agitation of the ducklings.

With a jump Dino swooped close to the poor exhausted Pasquale and he took him up in his arms, the cats ran away scared like hell!

All together, they went home happy to have found their singing rooster.

At the puppies was not spared a reprimand because they had over a big danger, but fortunately, everything was solved for the best.

In the warm in the barn, the animals celebrated to have refund Pasquale in the mean wild someone wondered worried if the cats would return but the wise Turbo said: "You worry too much for what was and what will be. There is a saying: Yesterday is history, tomorrow is a mystery, but today is a gift ... This is why it is called present. "

They kept it up their lives happily accepting any adventure that the future reserved for them, one thing though deep down they were sure, they would not have seen the three cats for a long time.

... The sweet adventures continue in ...

 decosil[®]
StoryBooks